U. S. Judge Denies Delay in Little Rock Race Order

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley today denied a motion to stay his own order of Saturday which suspended integration in Little Rock schools for 90 days.

The judge said that to grant a stay would keep the racial situation at Central High School intolerable because too much time would be consumed in processing a Negro appeal of his order.

Wiley Branton, attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, who made the motion, said he planned to telephone the U. S. 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis and ask for instructions on appealing the integration suspension order. He already had filed a notice of appeal here.

"I don't know at this point exactly how this is going to be handled," Branton reported. "I may have to go to the chief circuit judge's home."

THE LITTLE Rock School Board opposed Branton's motion for a stay on ground it would be in the interest of the Negro pupils, only, not the public.

Lemley, in a written opinion, which was issued after a brief recess of the hearing, said: "To grant this motion and stay the enforcement of our judgment would to a large extent nullify our order in the cause since it will in all probability take months to carry the case through the Court of Appeals and the U. S. Supreme Court."

"And in the meantime, the situation at Central High School, which we have found to be intolerable from an educational standpoint, would continue," he said.

A stay by any of the courts, Branton said, would mean that the racial situation at Central High would be just as it was when the 1957-58 school year ended.

In granting the school board's petition for a delay of integration until mid-semester 1961, Judge Lemley conceded that "the Negro students in Little Rock district have a constitutional right not to be excluded from any of the public schools in account of race; but the board has convincingly shown that the time for the enjoyment of that right has not yet come."

LEMLEY, in a 35-page opinion Saturday, said his ruling did not constitute yielding to unlawful force or violence but was an exercise of discretion and good judgment. A breathing spell could permit a change in community attitude and easing of racial tensions.

Yank's Yacht Drifts Near China Coast

TOKYO (AP) — All Japanese fishing vessels in the East China Sea were ordered to look out today for an American yacht which may be drifting near the Communist Chinese mainland with Hollywood actor John Calvert and four others aboard.

The 95-ton, two-masted Thespian of Los Angeles, owned and skippered by Calvert, left Keelung, Formosa, in bad weather last Monday. The actor expected to reach Japan Thursday or Friday. The yacht had just been fitted with a new engine and Calvert sailed against the advice of friends.

On Friday a vessel similar to the white yacht was sighted by a Japanese trawler only 80 miles southeast of Shanghai. It was reported drifting northwest in a calm sea, halfway between Formosa and the Thespian's destination in southern Japan.

The report did not alarm Japanese coast guard officials. They said the vessel may reach southern Japan in a day or two.

Calvert is a former stage magician who played the Falcon on television and movie heavy roles.

Fliver Plane Pilot Nearing Sicily Goal

PARIS (AP) — A light plane flown across the Atlantic by 55-year-old Max Conrad passed over the Mediterranean island of Elba today and headed toward a landing at Palermo, Sicily.

From Elba, between Italy and Corsica, the Winona, Minn., grandfather faced a flight of less than 400 miles to reach his destination.

Conrad left New York's Idlewild Airport Sunday morning hoping to make the 4,400-mile trip in about 33 hours. He has flown the Atlantic 39 times in light planes.

which might smooth integration at the later date, he said.

The judge noted too that Horace Mann High School for Negroes here was considered on a par with Central High and thus the seven Negroes could still obtain a good high school education.

The school board based its plea for postponement on grounds that tensions, violence and the presence of federal troops had made its gradual plan for desegregation unworkable at this time.

Little Rock Shocks Negro

Leaders of Race Give Views to President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Negro leaders today told President Eisenhower that court-ordered suspension of school integration at Little Rock, Ark., has shocked and outraged Negroes in America.

At a White House conference with Eisenhower, the Negroes said the court decision handed down last weekend is being construed, rightly or wrongly, as a green light to lawless elements in defiance of federal authority.

The views of the Negro leaders were set forth in a prepared statement, which was handed to newsmen after their 45-minute meeting with the President.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said that Eisenhower made no comment on the court ruling by U. S. Dist. Judge Harry Lemley.

Randolph added that neither did Eisenhower make any promise with respect to a nine-point program offered by the Negro leaders with a view to improving the conditions of their people.

IMMEDIATE emphasis was on the Little Rock situation and school integration, but the Negro leaders had made it plain in advance they would raise a wide range of civil rights issues.

Among other things, the Negro delegation urged Eisenhower to order the Justice Department to intervene in the Little Rock case as a friend of the court.

At today's White House conference in addition to Randolph were Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People; Lester B. Granger, executive secretary of the National Urban League; and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., of Montgomery, Ala., president of the Southern Leadership Conference and leader of the Montgomery bus boycott.

All four of the Negro leaders said Eisenhower listened very sympathetically to their presentation, but took no side with respect to any part of the specific program they set forth.

"We tried to impress on him that the colored people are frustrated and angry," Wilkins said. "We think the President understands a little bit better the mood of the colored people of the country. And the face-to-face observations helped us to understand him a little better."

10-Day Tryst Is Ended for Jersey Kids

KEARNY, N. J. (AP) — A pretty high school girl and her teenage boy friend were back in their separate homes today after a 10-day stay in a Southern hotel.

Helen Jones, 16, and David Horne, 17, parted at a detention home in Petersburg, Va., Sunday when an embrace, a kiss and a whispered vow.

Then, in turn, they were taken in tow by their shocked parents.

The youngsters had been the object of a 13-state police alarm since June 11, when they disappeared from their New Jersey homes.

The blonde girl and her handsome boy friend had met at the Second Presbyterian Church in Newark and had been going together for more than a year. David was an Explorer Scout and his scoutmaster is Francis Jones, Helen's father.

Police found the couple registered as man and wife in a Petersburg hotel.

"We love each other," they told authorities.

Their youth had prevented them from carrying out their plan to get married, they said.

Father Fenced In by Son

Second Ike Aide Eyed by Probers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Morgan Moulder (D-Mo) suggested today that House investigators call Gerald D. Morgan, President Eisenhower's special counsel, saying: "From what I hear, Mr. Morgan is more of a front man than Mr. Adams."

Moulder said he understands Morgan is more accessible than Sherman Adams to persons seeking help from the White House. Moulder did not go into detail.

Morgan declined comment on Moulder's remarks.

In reply to a question, Morgan said he had received no overtures regarding testimony by him.

A House subcommittee, of which Moulder is a member, resumes hearings Tuesday on contacts admitted by Adams, Eisenhower's top assistant, with two regulatory agencies on behalf of Bernard Goldfine, a millionaire Boston industrialist.

Adams, the center of a growing political storm, acknowledged accepting hotel hospitality and gifts from Goldfine.

ALTHOUGH conceding he was imprudent, Adams has denied seeking or getting any favored treatment for Goldfine, who was having troubles with the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

There was no sign Eisenhower has changed his stated intention to retain Adams, whom he has described as a man of honesty.

But that didn't stem the rising volume of demands that Adams step down. Some of the strongest demands have come from Republicans.

Morgan appeared as Adams' legal adviser when Adams appeared before the subcommittee last Tuesday.

Adams has informed the subcommittee that at his request, Morgan made contact with the SEC to obtain information about a matter involving Goldfine.

He said Goldfine complained to him about some SEC actions in the case of the East Boston Co., a Goldfine holding firm accused of not filing required financial reports in 1948-1955.

Adams said Morgan obtained the information from Thomas C. Meeker, SEC's general counsel, but asked for no favors. The information was not passed on to Goldfine, Adams said, and Meeker was not informed of Adams' interest in it.

The SEC said last week it pressed the East Boston case even after the White House inquiry. The Goldfine holding company was fined $3,000 and is now filing the required reports on schedule.

Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the investigating subcommittee, said the record developed so far shows that Goldfine received preferential treatment from both the SEC and the FTC.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members from both parties apparently are making it difficult for Republicans to build up the campaign theme that President Eisenhower needs a GOP Congress to get his legislative program approved.

The contention that the Democrats in Congress are hamstringing the President's proposals has been one of the main talking points of GOP National Chairman Meade ALCORN. Eisenhower himself used practically the same argument in an informal talk to the GOP state chairmen last Thursday.

But the Democrats and the Republicans are marking up a voting record in Congress that seems unlikely to sustain the GOP campaign argument.

For instance, unless all the signs fail, Senate Democrats will have to furnish the lion's share of votes if Eisenhower's request for a five-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act is approved.

Just as Republicans provided much of the opposition in the House, so the Senate finds its two

Two Are Held For Shooting Of Student

TOLEDO (AP) — Two Toledo men were arrested Sunday night in connection with the robbery and shooting of an Antioch College student.

Shot twice in the head during a robbery, Eugene Greathouse, 25, was reported in critical condition today in a Toledo hospital.

Charged with a armed robbery were Brady Banks, 22, and Paul Davis, 28.

Greathouse and a companion, Arthur Clink, 22, of Roseville, Mich., drove from Detroit to Toledo Saturday night in Greathouse's car, police said. They picked up two men at the bus station and went for a ride.

Clink, who identified Banks and Davis today, said the pair pulled a gun and forced them out of the car about 20 miles southwest of here. They forced their victims to strip, robbed Greathouse of $64 and then shot him, Clink said.

The robbers drove off. Clink walked to a nearby farmhouse and summoned police.

Greathouse has been working in Detroit as part of a work-study program of Antioch College at Yellow Springs.

In Lebanon, meanwhile, the U. N. mission planned to establish a watchdog team today in the strategic Bekaa border area despite go-slow warnings from rebel leaders in the area.

Observers turned back from the Bekaa Valley Saturday but Col. Maurice Brown, the New Zealand senior officer with the mission, denied reports the rebels had prevented them forcibly from taking up positions there.

Brown said the local rebel chief had told the U. N. officers they should not try to get to the border too soon.

SENATORS Styles Bridges (R-NH) and William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) are leading a drive to cut the extension to three years. Bridges heads the party policy committee and Knowland is minority floor leader.

On the other hand, some of those counted among the strongest GOP supporters of the trade program voted against many of the administration's amendments to the labor regulation bill the Senate has passed. These included senators Clifford P. Case (R-NJ), John S. Cooper (R-Ky), Irving Ives (R-NY), Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) and Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.).

When the House passed a defense reorganization bill that was not fully satisfactory to the President, Republicans there wrote a record in support of Eisenhower's losing proposals.

But Senate Republicans appear unlikely to muster a majority of their members in support of Eisenhower.

Knowland and Bridges led the successful Senate assault on proposed authority for Eisenhower to provide foreign aid for Iron Curtain countries. They won this fight.

Dag Confers With Nasser

CAIRO (AP) — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld pressed his campaign to quiet the Lebanese rebellion with President Nasser and the government of the United Arab Republic today.

Hammarskjöld met with Nasser Sunday night a few hours after arriving from Amman and Jerusalem. He left Beirut Saturday after talks with the Lebanese government on their charges that Nasser has sent arms and men across the Syria-Lebanon border to aid the rebels.

Informed sources said U. A. R. officials would warn Hammarskjöld against foreign interference in Lebanon and insist once more that their government is not aiding the rebels. Nasser contends that the Lebanese crisis is completely internal, and that pro-Western President Camille Chamoun is seeking a pretext for the United States and Britain to send troops to his aid.

Hammarskjöld is to return to Beirut Tuesday and leave for New York the next day.

U. N. HEADQUARTERS in New York announced that the United States was providing two helicopters and Sweden four light observation planes for the use of the U. N. observer group the Security Council has sent to Lebanon to check on any infiltrations from Syria.

In Lebanon, meanwhile, the U. N. mission planned to establish a watchdog team today in the strategic Bekaa border area despite go-slow warnings from rebel leaders in the area.

Observers turned back from the Bekaa Valley Saturday but Col. Maurice Brown, the New Zealand senior officer with the mission, denied reports the rebels had prevented them forcibly from taking up positions there.

People Living On 'Borrowed' Time, Belief

CLEVELAND (AP) — "If there ever was a people who lived on borrowed time, we are that people," Dr. Francis D. Nichol of Washington today told Seventh-Day Adventists here for the denomination's 48th quadrennial world conference.

Nichol, editor of the Review and Herald, the denomination's official paper, told delegates at a morning devotional study that "by the very logic of our interpretation of scripture, we ate right now borrowing time from eternity."

He spoke on the nearness of the end of the world and reviewed some of the predictions which he said were publicly branded as nonsense until a few decades ago.

"Take for example our startling prediction of great wars ahead," the editor continued. "For long years that prediction seemed like an idle tale. Two world wars have alerted the public thinking on that point and in this atomic age we hear frightened scientists and many others beginning to use a phrase that formerly appeared to be the monopoly of Adventist preachers—the end of the world."

Nichol said the most important proof to him that "the day of the Lord is near is that for the first time in history, the world faces not only the possibility, but the absolute certainty that unless human folly is soon checked mankind will blot itself from the earth."

Little U.S. Pigs Attract Poles

POZNAN, Poland (AP) — Ten little pigs proved the star attraction of the U. S. exhibit at the Poznan Trade Fair. At times they won more visitors than the two giant Sputniks in the rival Soviet pavilion.

More than half a million Poles visited the U. S. pavilion before the fair closed Sunday. They saw American production line methods in action and their first color TV.

But the old rural pastime of leaning on a rail and looking at hogs held its own against the marvels of science. Some animal fans stood for hours watching one pen of piglets with a new-style mechanical feeder and another family with an old-style sow.

Adams Declines Bid from Home

HANCOCK, N. H. (AP) — Sherman Adams today declined an invitation to seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination in New Hampshire's Sept. 9 primaries.

"I feel I have a job to finish here," the top presidential assistant wrote from Washington to a former federal judge who asked Adams to re-enter the political arena in his home state.

Adams served as New Hampshire governor from 1949 to 1953. Albert Levitt of Hancock, a former U. S. District Court judge for the Virgin Islands, wired President Eisenhower's chief aide the invitation.

Pro and Con Demonstrations Being Staged

New York, Moscow See Violence from Both Sides of Fuss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Repercussions from the execution of Imre Nagy, leader of the ill-fated 1956 Hungarian rebellion, are growing violent—on both sides of the dispute.

In Moscow, where Soviet leaders fingered the execution, demonstrators attacked the West German embassy in retaliation for a German demonstration in Bonn last week.

In New York, Hungarian refugees smashed windows of the headquarters of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

In Ottawa, Canada about 320 Hungarian refugees splattered the Soviet Embassy with red ink as they paraded in protest of the executions.

And in Warsaw, the Polish Communist party today was reported ready to protest within the inner circles of the Communist bloc against the execution of Nagy and other leaders of the Hungarian revolt.

THERE APPEARED no likelihood, however, that Polish party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka would make a public complaint that would bring Moscow's wrath down on him.

Informants said Gomulka's opposition to the executions was made clear in private speeches by Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki and Roman Zambrowski, both members of the Polish Politburo. In the Moscow demonstration, more than 1,000 banner-waving Russians attacked the West German Embassy with stones, sticks and ink bottles today.

The demonstrators marched toward the Embassy from several directions. They seemed well organized. Suddenly they started throwing stones and bricks, smashing Embassy windows.

Then came a barrage of ink bottles that splattered bright blue ink on the gray Embassy walls. Some of the bottles sailed through broken windows and crashed on the floor inside. The crowd was in a vicious mood.

The New York demonstrators smashed three windows of a Park Avenue building. Seven policemen and a number of pickets were injured, none seriously.

The violent outbreak came, police said, at what appeared to be a prearranged signal. It turned into a melee between 350 pickets and nearly 100 policemen. Nine pickets were arrested.

DEMONSTRATORS had been peacefully marching and handing out leaflets of the Federation of Former Hungarian Political Prisoners before the violence erupted.

This was the second outbreak of violence at the Manhattan building over the weekend. Anti-Soviet pickets broke two windows Saturday and three arrests followed.

Both demonstrations were to protest the execution of Nagy and three of his associates, announced in Moscow last week.

Seven pickets arrested on disorderly conduct charges received suspended sentences after pleading guilty in court.

They received a warning from Magistrate Vincent J. Ferreri to "follow the American way of life."

5 Die in Beirut From Bomb Blast

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb exploded in a bustling shopping area of Beirut today, killing five persons including a woman and her child.

The bomb went off just opposite the fruit bazaar in downtown Beirut. An empty bus parked at the curb shielded many shoppers and reduced the casualty toll.

The bombing came after several days of relative calm in the Lebanese capital while U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was conferring here with government officials. Hammarskjöld left Saturday for Cairo but is to return Tuesday.

Columbus Man Shoots Wife, House Guest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—While Jessie Ben Zeigler's wife sagged critically wounded into a policeman's arms Sunday, Zeigler shot and killed a house guest.

The 63-year-old Zeigler is being held in city prison today. Police say he has admitted firing the shot that took the life of Jessie Collins, 38, and sent Zeigler's wife, Bernice, 38, to Mercy Hospital in critical condition.

Minutes before the shots were fired, police had searched Zeigler's house in a fruitless effort to find the gun that fired the shots.

Police said Mrs. Zeigler called them to the house and told them her husband had loaded a revolver after a family quarrel.

When police could not find the gun, they started to leave. Patrolman George Vest said Mrs. Zeigler asked to leave with the officers and as she turned away from Vest, she was shot.

She fell into Vest's arms, the patrolman said. Police said that before they could stop him, Zeigler raced to a second floor bedroom and shot the sleeping Collins.

Police said Zeigler told them he shot his wife because she failed to prepare his noon meal Saturday. Zeigler said he shot Collins because the man had failed to leave his home.

Lockbourne AFB Is 'Campus' For Summer ROTC Trainees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — It takes a lot of marching, a little judo and jet flying, and an idea borrowed from college social fraternities, but they're separating the military men from the college boys here.

"Here" is Lockbourne Air Force Base, one of several bases whose facilities are being used in the ROTC summer training program.

"They" are a 16-officer faculty, mostly men who have been serving as college ROTC instructors, commanded by a lieutenant colonel from Lockbourne and assisted by nine sergeants.

The college boys are ROTC—Reserve Officer Training Corps—cadets, 20-and-21-year-olds from 37 colleges and universities between New England and New Mexico. Most will start their last year of college in the fall. A few have already completed four years.

Within a year, the Air Force hopes most will graduate and be commissioned second lieutenants. The latter depends to a considerable extent on their performance during the four weeks here.

For three (and sometimes four) years they've attended officer-taught ROTC classes. After the first two years, they volunteered for the last two years of the program and were selected after careful screening.

The four weeks here are designed to open their eyes to what air base life is really like. To help the adjustment, the faculty has borrowed an idea from college fraternities.

It's the buddy system, the idea of having "big brothers" — fellows who have been through both ROTC and Air Force active duty—show cadets the ropes. Twenty-eight such ROTC graduate officers are helping the 241 college men who reported last week.

Since they reported, cadets have been working a 15½-hour day, rising at 5:20 a. m. and hitting the sack at 9 p. m. There's some classroom instruction, but most is the see-it-for-yourself variety.

This is the week they've been looking forward to. Each gets a half-hour jet ride in a two-seat T33 trainer.

Before camp closes July 13, they will have flown with the aircrew of a four-engine KC97 tanker plane on a 5-to-7-hour mission to refuel a jet bomber. They'll also fly to Florida to see a demonstration of Air Force weapons, and the outstanding flight—about 27 cadets—will ride in the new KC135 jet tanker at the close of camp.

In the four weeks, each will have served in a position of command and each will have spent two days at a special survival training camp in the rough country around Nelsonville, Ohio. There, cadets will have to provide their own meals and shelter—just as they might if forced down—and find their way to civilization.

Although paid the salary of basic airman—$78 for the four weeks—cadets have a status somewhere between enlisted and officer rank. Enlisted men do not salute them, but cadets must salute officers.

Upon satisfactory completion of the four weeks — cadets can be washed out of the program by a board of officers for failing to meet standards—they receive a certificate of completion. There are no grades, no tests. But an evaluation of each cadet's potential is forwarded to the ROTC detachment at his school.

Once they've completed the program and gotten their college diplomas, cadets serve a minimum of five years as Air Force officers if they fly, three years if they do not earn pilots' or navigators' wings.

The Air Force of course hopes that what they see this summer and their subsequent experience on active duty will convince them they should make a career of it.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Juvenile delinquency is as much a problem in Great Britain today as in the United States, according to George H. Haterill, commander of criminal investigation for Scotland Yard.

In a speech at Michigan State University, Haterill said "figures show that 75 per cent of indictable crime in England has been charged to persons under 21 years of age."

The Communist Threat In Economic War

It seems probable that the recent visit to this country of England's Prime Minister Macmillan, resulted in some satisfactory agreements with our nation's administrative officials.

This English statesman, whose mother was from Indiana, made friends here and indicated a sensible viewpoint as to world conditions.

His call for greater economic unity in the free world is a logical challenge to nations of the free Western world. He declared this to be essential to meet the increasing competition of the Communist group of countries.

Premier De Gaulle's attitude in this situation is now of considerable importance and both the United States and Great Britain are arranging for top-level meetings with him.

It has become more and more obvious recently that the Soviet Union is mobilizing the total economic strength of the Communist world against the West. Yet the United States and her Western allies have been somewhat slow in gearing themselves for counter action. The average American seems oblivious to the threat to him, and many members of the business community are apathetic, seeking negative measures of protectionism and restrictions on trade.

Prime Minister Macmillan was able, quite effectively to point to his host country, the United States, as a fine example of how 48 states have prospered in the absence of artificial economic barriers.

It is reported that since 1953, the Soviet Union has put out $1,600,000,000 in capital export commitments to 19 countries under supervision of over 2,000 technicians and is beginning to challenge us with credit terms, loans, and barter agreements we are not matching.

In the first quarter of 1958, the Sino-Soviet bloc has for the first time passed the United States in steel production.

The free world is still immensely more powerful than the Communist, if it will combine its resources, but the free countries are not combining but competing one against the other.

Population of the world is increasing at a much faster rate than is production, especially in the underdeveloped nations tempted by Communism. It is indeed time for the free world to renew its ties and to find common policies based on the startling realities of the times. Isolation, trade restrictions, and divisions are the means through which Khrushchev says we will destroy ourselves. We must prove him wrong.

List of Things To Do Without

NEW YORK (AP) — Wives are always writing notes to themselves headed: "Things to do." Every now and then, however, when the fables of civilization become oppressive, mankind ought to compose a different kind of list—a list of things we could all do without, a catalogue of expendables.

Here are a few personal nominations:

The Russian problem, the Algerian problem, the Middle East problem and the middle age problem.

The current vogue of "sick jokes" such as this one: "Papa, why is mama lying there so white and still?" "Shut up and keep digging!"

Television Westerns in which every character needs a psychiatrist except the villain's horse.

People who greet you by patting your stomach and saying: "Still putting it on, eh?"

The word "No!" when used by women.

People who gave up smoking, drinking and thinking all at the same time.

Books about decadence in the South.

Books about decadence in the suburbs.

All books over 300 pages long.

Recession.

Inflation.

People who wear sunglasses on cloudy days.

Fond parents who insist on showing you photos of their children.

Pet owners who buy expensive items such as gold identification tags or mink jackets for dogs.

By Hal Boyle

Martinis made with gin.

Martinis made with vodka.

Hosts who insist on subjecting their guests to the joys of backyard cooking at the height of the mosquito season.

Rock 'n roll.

Fat men who persist in wearing plaid caps three sizes too small for them.

Fat ladies who wear a bikini, although they are three sizes too large for one.

Bosses who begin a conversation, "Now look, this is harder for me than it is for you."

Bosses who brag, "I never asked a man to do a thing I wouldn't do myself."

People who say out loud to elevator operators, "Guess you have your ups and downs. Heh, heh, heh."

Foot Rules Diabetics Should Never Forget

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

REMEMBER the "good old days" when youngsters used to go barefoot all summer long?

We don't see much of this any more, especially in our urban areas. And it's probably a good thing.

With all the glass and other sharp objects left lying around these days as a result of our more civilized way of living, the chances of injury and infection are fairly high.

Bare Feet Hazardous

So I suggest that you parents do not permit your youngsters to go around barefoot much this summer, unless it is in the safety of your own backyard.

And I must rule out even this for all diabetic children. In fact, any diabetic, young or old, should never walk around barefoot anywhere any time.

Any kind of an infection in a diabetic should be treated as an emergency. Infection, you see, reduces the effectiveness of insulin.

Begins on Skin

Since infection is apt to begin on the skin, especially around the toes, a diabetic must take meticulous care of his feet. Therefore let me give you a few foot rules that any diabetic, young or old, should follow:

Bathe and powder your feet daily. Pat your feet dry, don't wipe them.

Don't bathe in very hot water. Even in the shower, protect your feet with paper slippers.

Don't cut, scrape or injure your toes or feet.

Don't use commercial corn remedies.

Don't use strong iodine solutions.

Wear Leather Shoes

Wear good, supple leather shoes with flexible soles. Old shoes that are out of shape can cause foot trouble.

Don't wear poorly fitted shoes or arch supports.

Don't wear shoes without hosiery.

Poor circulation also is extremely dangerous to a diabetic. It causes damage to the tissues and the excess sugar in the blood provides bacteria with an excellent opportunity to grow. Consequently:

Don't sit with your legs crossed over your knees.

Don't use tight bandages or place adhesive tape on the skin.

Don't use hot water bottles on your feet.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. R. B.: My 20-year-old son has a very high-pitched voice. This began at the age of 14.

What can be causing this?

Answer: Some disorder of the vocal cords or nervous system may be at fault. A thorough physical examination will probably reveal the exact cause.

Khrushchev's Main Objective

Nikita Khrushchev delivered one of his more important policy declarations in his speech before the Seventh Congress of the Bulgarian Communist Party on June 3, 1958. It is always important to note Khrushchev's speeches because they are well-prepared, adequately conceived and designed for the world. In this speech, he said:

"Our successes in the development of science and technology are well known. The Soviet Union possesses everything to solve, in a historically short period, the main economic problem — to catch up with and overtake the most developed capitalist countries in per capita production."

Just as two centuries ago, the American colonies founded our great industries upon the earlier development in Great Britain; just as Japan in the Meiji revolution built a modern industry upon the results of industrial developments in the United States and Great Britain, so Soviet Russia is building an industry and agriculture based upon the enormous growth in production and distribution in the United States, Great Britain and Germany. On that basis, Soviet Russia starts fresh and takes full advantage of what came before, which is entitled to do. Therefore, it is not impossible for Khrushchev to continue to build a modern industry.

However, when Khrushchev speaks of overtaking the capitalist countries, he assumes that only Soviet Russia is dynamic and that the western world is static, which is, of course, absurd. Besides, in this particular speech, Khrushchev does not limit himself to Soviet Russia. He includes the entire Soviet universal state. For instance, he points out what strides red China is making in the effort to overtake and pass the west.

The Chinese People's Republic is now struggling to catch up with and overtake England in volume of steel production and other important industrial products. The Czechoslovak Republic has already surpassed Sweden, France, and West Germany in per capita steel smelting and France and Italy in electric power production. With the emergence of socialism from the realm of one country and the establishment of the world socialist camp, new and exceptionally significant possibilities for speeding up the tempo of development of socialist economy have been created. It is essential that these possibilities are utilized wisely and in a businesslike manner.

The emphasis on the Skoda Works in Czechoslovakia is interesting because this was one of the principal steel and manufacturing enterprises in Europe, first established when Czechoslovakia was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. During World War I Skoda played a great role in the Kaiser's war activities; subsequent to World War I, Skoda exported not only steel and steel products but all kinds of manufactured goods, including locomotives. As for China's steel production, the Japanese had developed an important steel industry in Manchuria long before Red China came into existence. Although Soviet Russia dismantled the Manchurian plants immediately after the war with American connivance, they have been rebuilt and refurbished since the Chinese communist government came into existence largely at Russian expense. The largest exclusively Chinese enterprise in this field, the Hanyehping Steel Works at Hankow on the Yangtze has been in existence for many years. I visited it in 1919, Hanyehping is now part of the immense steel production in the Soviet universal state, a production which is second only to that of the United States. One of the facts of which the west is now only becoming conscious is that the Soviet world economy is integrated. Khrushchev speaks of it in the following terms:

"... Recently, a conference of representatives of communist and workers parties, members of the Council of Mutual Economic Assistance, was held in Moscow. Representatives of the Chinese communist party, the Koreans workers party, the Vietnamese workers party, and the Mongolian People's revolutionary party also participated in the conference."

"The conference came to a unanimous conclusion that at present, when economic relations among socialist countries have been considerably expanded and strengthened, the question of further improvement of the forms of economic collaboration are of the greatest significance. This includes more thorough specialization and cooperation in production in mutually related branches of the economies of the socialist camp nations."

If the European Coal and Steel Community is a success, it is very doubtful that either Red China or Czechoslovakia will long surpass Sweden, France and West Germany in total production of steel products. However, Europe continues to diddle with economic nationalism.

Patrol Auxiliary's Duties Outlined

COLUMBUS (AP) — If an enemy ever sends nuclear death winging toward Ohio's nine key target areas, it will be up to the highway patrol's auxiliary to guide thousands of citizens to safety.

That is the challenge handed the patrol's supplementary force Sunday at the close of its 13th state conference here on handling evacuation traffic and setting up shelter areas and control points.

The target areas are considered by civil defense officials to be Youngstown, Toledo, Akron, Steubenville, Dayton, Canton, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower himself has set an example for Sherman Adams and all other government employees in accepting gifts. He has received for his personal use gifts totaling thousands of dollars.

He tried, in his news conference last week, to say when it is and isn't all right for a man in public office to accept gifts. The line he drew was far from sharp or distinct.

Maybe such a line can't be drawn. But because it hasn't been drawn both Eisenhower and Adams, his chief assistant, find themselves in contradictory positions.

If a clear line can't be drawn it would seem any man in public office should lean over backwards way over backwards — to avoid doing anything which might embarrass him or the government or cause suspicion.

This is what Eisenhower said: "The circumstances surrounding the innocent receipt by a public official of any gifts are therefore important, so that the public may clearly distinguish between innocent and guilty action."

"Among these circumstances are the character and reputation of the individual, the record of his subsequent actions, and evidence of intent or lack of intent to exert undue influence."

But this explanation overlooks some very human and subtle questions:

1. Would a man in public office, intentionally or not, be more favorably inclined to do something or decide something or use his influence for a person who gives him something than for one who doesn't?

2. Should a man in public office — for fear of appearing to return a favor — let himself be in the position of refusing to do for an individual who gave him a gift something he'd freely do for a stranger?

A man in public office could easily avoid both dilemmas — dilemmas with which he should never have to be confronted — by refusing gifts from anyone who has or might have any business with the government.

When Bernard Goldfine, Adams' gift-giving friend, a businessman, got into trouble with a federal agency, he went to Adams in the White House to find out why.

Adams got the information for him, information which a House subcommittee lawyer said it was against the law to reveal.

Then Adams offered this contradictory explanation of his conduct:

He said what he did for Goldfine — getting the information from the agency — was the kind of routine thing he or his staff would do for anyone who came to him. But at the same time he conceded maybe his judgment was bad.

Several years ago Eisenhower said: "I can't believe anybody on my staff would ever be guilty of an indiscretion. But if anything came to my attention of that kind . . . that individual would be gone."

At his news conference Eisenhower, while describing Adams as "imprudent," announced at the same time he would keep him because "I need him."

Eisenhower certainly has needed Adams. It's because of Adams' long and dedicated hours at his desk — taking a lot of the load off Eisenhower — that Eisenhower has had so much time to himself, including time for golf.

'Have Gun, Will Travel' Star Really Can Ride Hoss

By RICHARD BOONE

NEW YORK (AP) — A little more than a year ago, a certain observation was made in a screening room on Madison Avenue. CBS and advertising executives were viewing the pilot episode of "Have Gun, Will Travel."

In the darkness, someone said: "Say, that damn doctor can really ride a horse."

That Madison Avenue observer was seeing me for the first time as Paladin — a gentlemanly sort of rogue, circa Old West, 1870's. Until then he knew me from TV for the most part as Dr. Syner.

Well, an actor is always looking for a change of pace. The meatier the role, the better the actor's feast. Having been with Paladin for over a year, I feel right at home with him and the show. I've never had so much fun.

As for that Madison Avenue observer's surprise at seeing me on a horse — well, Boone and horses have been on neighborly terms for a long time.

I've ridden them as a boy working summers in Montana, and they have carried me across landscapes through a score of Western feature pictures.

In fact, one of the requirements I have for actors in a dramatic group I conduct is that they learn to ride a horse. Where is an actor in Hollywood today, if he can't swing aboard Old Paint?

Getting back to HGWTV. People often ask, now that the show is a success, how long the series will run. This is a tough question that I wouldn't try to answer. There are so many unknown factors in the run of any show on television.

Well, they then ask — How long will TV westerns be popular? This brings to mind the Indian chief who asked Gen. Phil Sheridan for a cannon.

"Why — so you can kill more soldiers?" demanded Sheridan.

"No," said the chief. "Use cannon to kill cowboys. Kill soldiers with a club."

As far as I'm concerned, I hope its just as hard to kill off TV's Westerns. The good ones, that is. There's just something about cowboys and good Western stories that make good entertainment.

Freight's Brakes Fail in C&O Crash

THURMOND, W. Va. (AP) — "The brakes just wouldn't stop her," said engineer H. W. Honaker after his 14-car freight train rammed into the rear of a halted luxury passenger train on the Chesapeake and Ohio mainline.

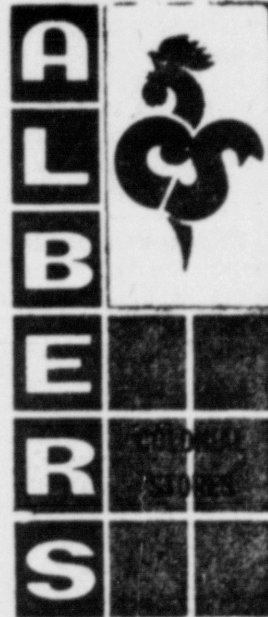

Honaker, 66, was one of four crewmen and six passengers hospitalized after the crash. None was seriously injured.

The passenger train, the George Washington, was en route from Newport News, Va., to Cincinnati.

There must be something in that old saying that "a cat has nine lives" for scientists have announced that fossil remains of animals, recently unearthed in the great fossil beds of Nebraska, were those of cats which roamed that area 59 million years ago.

The fossils were given the name of diaphanous, a cat - dog like animal about the size of a collie dog. The bones are now being studied by paleontologists at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D. C.

Fossil remains found in the deposit also clearly show that several dog - like animals were in the area 25 million years ago, and that some of them were as large as grizzly bears.

Apparently it was from these creatures millions of years ago that there emerged the domestic cats, dogs, foxes, wolves, etc.

When white man reached this continent, he found Indians with domesticated dogs, apparently from the wild animals and domesticated cats were known in ancient times.

Many years ago fossil remains of miniature horses which existed ages ago, and apparently from which the horses of today originated, were also found in the fossil beds of the western states.

DEPUTY STILL SEARCHING!

Deputy Sheriff Don Thompson admits that his longest search has so far been in vain—but he is still hopeful.

This time it is not "erretting out crime; rather it is a wide search for an old Fayette County deputy sheriff's badge!

Don, for several years, has traced reports of the old badges, but they never resulted in bringing any to light; so he is continuing his search in the hope that eventually the long - sought badge will be found.

Once he found that such a badge was turned over to children to play with, but they played with it so roughly that it is now non - existent.

"If I ever do find an old deputy sheriff badge, I am going to wear it!" Don said in discussing his long effort to find the elusive emblem of law.

MOTH WAS BUSY!

Warren L. Campbell, employed by the Coca - Cola Bottling Co. next door to the Record - Herald building, recently saw a sizeable moth on the front window of the plant.

For over four hours she continued to lay egg after egg, moving slightly after each egg had been deposited, until upward of 300 tiny eggs had been laid in rows on the glass. The entire cluster much resembled a human footprint 1 1/4 inches long and a half inch wide.

Then the moth vanished. Now Warren is keeping an eye on the eggs to see when they hatch the little larva of the moth, which was about 1 1/4 inches across and resembled the Hydrangea sphynx moth.

FAMOUS SWINE JUDGE

In all probability Ed Klever, who lived on his farm near Yatesville and later in Bloomington, was the most famous swine judge of his day; he was so regarded by leading swine breeders of the country.

He and his brother, J. M. Klever, who lived near Yatesville, were both pioneers in the Poland China swine field and probably did more to promote the breed than any other two men.

As I recall, both were directors of the American Poland China Record Assn., and both were internationally known breeders famous Poland Chinas.

I have seen many of their swine pass under the hammer at top prices and their hogs scattered throughout the swine belt of the nation.

Forty years ago Ed Klever, whom I knew as a very modest and friendly man, was named chief judge of the swine department of the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. At that time one of the top officials of the exposition praised him for his outstanding ability as a judge and declared he had placed more ribbons than any other hog judge in the world. He had turned down many offers to judge swine at state fairs and other shows throughout the country.

Dr. and Mrs. D. V. Mossbarger now live in the former Ed Klever home in Bloomington, which is widely known as the white house with the large colonial pillars. It stands on a little eminence on Midland Ave.

Fayette County Nomenclature

Is Your Name 'Merritt'?

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles on Fayette County surnames and their derivations. The material is prepared by The Fact Bureau, McKeesport, Pa., especially for The Record - Herald.

MERRITT has been used extensively as a surname for a number of centuries. It admits of a few derivations.

For example, according to one well known authority on nomenclature, it is a transformation of Merriott, a parish in Somerset County, England, and was often bestowed in medieval times upon emigrants from that community.

It is said also that MERRITT is of French origin and was applied, when surnames first came into vogue, upon tenant farmers.

Still again, it is logical to assume that MERRITT was sometimes taken directly from "merit" and was the surname given to those of a community who were of high character and standing.

AMOS MERRITT (1758 - 1842) and HENRY MERRITT (1754 - 1821) served as privates respectively in the Massachusetts and Rhode Island troops during the Revolutionary War. Another patriot was Cpl. WILLIAM MERRITT (1728 - 1793) of the Maryland Militia.

"MERRITT RECORDS" and "NEW MERRITT RECORDS" are genealogies compiled by DOUGLAS MERRITT of Rhinebeck, N. Y., and published respectively in 1908 and 1913. They deal with the early English MERRITTS and some of their descendants in the United States.

There are 31 listings of individuals by the name of MERRITT in the latest directory of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary scholastic society.

WESLEY MERRITT (1836-1910)

was major general, U. S. Army. LEONIDAS MERRITT (1844-1926) discovered and located the principal mines on the Mesabi Range Minn. in 1888 and was the first president of the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines. He also discovered and opened up copper and gold mines in the West and in Mexico.

ERNEST GEORGE MERRITT (1865 - 1948) was professor and head of the department of physics at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. for seventeen years.

KINSEY N. MERRITT is vice president, Railway Express Agency, with offices in New York City. ARTHUR TILLMAN MERRITT is professor of music at Harvard University.

CARROLL B. MERRITT is vice president and a member of the board of directors, Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City, nationally known book publishing firm.

Incompetent Teachers Hit

BOWLING GREEN —It would be the lesser evil to close a school than put an incompetent teacher in it.

The warning came Sunday from Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, president of Bowling Green State University, as he welcomed the representatives to the 36th annual meeting of the National Assn. of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification.

"You cheat a child more and more permanently by putting an incompetent teacher in the classroom and calling him a teacher than you can by closing down the classroom," he declared.

MRS. JOHN DEMERRITT AYER

Rockford Chapel at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, was the setting early Saturday evening for the wedding of Miss Sue Ann Flesher, daughter of Mrs. Frank Bernard Flesher, 543 E. Dorothy Lane, Dayton, and Mr. John Demeritt Ayer, 205 Central Place, Washington, C. H., son of Mr. and Mrs. Demeritt C. Ayer, Manchester, N. H.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Morris Keeton, College pastor, at 5 o'clock.

The bride was lovely in a ballerina length gown of white silk organza that was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, short sleeves and a crushed cummerbund waist. Three tiers of deep flounces accented the back of the circular skirt. Her tiny circular veil covered a circlet of pearl-centered forget-me-nots. White kid pumps and white gloves completed her bridal ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of forget-me-nots, white rosebuds, carnation flowers, and lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Katharine Critchley of Brooklyn, N. Y., was the bride's maid of honor and only attendant. She was attired in a street-length dress of blue print silk organza, similar in style as that of the bride's. With this she wore a bowed headband of white net and velvet, blue shantung pumps and white gloves. She carried a small colonial bouquet of blue delphinium, white roses and carnations.

Mr. Hal Summers of Washington, C. H., was Mr. Ayer's best man. Guests were seated by Mr. Peter Hochstein of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Flesher chose for her daughter's wedding a Dior blue silk organza dress complemented with matching accessories and a corsage of pale pink sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother was wearing a blue and lilac print chiton dress with contrasting accessories. Her corsage was of deep pink sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the exchange of vows a reception was held at Normont House, Antioch College. Miss Sheila Nicholas of New York was hostess.

When they left on their short wedding trip, the new Mrs. Ayer was wearing a tailored beige knit chemise with white accessories. The corsage from the center of her bridal bouquet was pinned to her shoulder.

Upon their return they will reside in Washington, C. H.

The bride was graduated Saturday morning from Antioch College with a bachelor of arts degree in government. She is a graduate from Stivers High School, Dayton. Mr. Ayer was graduated from West High School in Manchester, N. H., and attended Antioch College. He is currently on the news staff of The Washington, C. H. Record-Herald. He was formerly associated with the Manchester Union-Leader.

Guests attending the wedding and reception from Washington, C. H., were Mr. and Mrs. Hal Summers and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hites.

day for immediate changes in the nation's educational system — not just more money.

The report echoed oft-repeated statements that American schools are overcrowded, understaffed and ill-equipped. It said the basic problem is one of providing more money but that other things must be done too.

The report suggested these steps:

1. Testing and guidance procedures must be strengthened to push along more talented students who may be held back by average or slow groups.

2. Some educational problems "gravely affecting the national interest" may require a helping hand from the federal government.

3. NATIONAL leaders must grasp the scope of the job that lies ahead.

"Perhaps the greatest problem facing American education is the widely held view that all we require are a few more teachers, a few more buildings, a little more money," said the report.

The crisis in science education, the report said, "is not an invention of the newspapers, or scientists or the Pentagon. It is a real crisis."

It has all been brought about, the group said, by man's swift plunge into a new technological era that is bringing changes "so startling as to test to the utmost our adaptive capacities, our stability and our wisdom."

Slightly more than one-fourth of the people killed in auto accidents in the United States are pedestrians.

New Labels Fashioned for Economy Today

'Panic' or 'Depression'
No Longer Found on Modern Word List

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—New labels for what's happening to us today crop up fast. And old terms for a slack in business activity are cast off as too harsh or upsetting.

Bottoming out is the most popular of today's catch-all phrases — leveling off having been the euphemism used last year when the boom fizzled.

Grandfather may have talked about a panic — which today's unpleasantness certainly isn't — and Father lived intimately with a depression — which by strict definition this one isn't either.

Today's is called a saucer-like recession, although some prefer breather before the next sprint and others think it shouldn't be mentioned by any name, especially if their own sales are queasy.

Rolling-readjustment was good enough right after the war. And inventory adjustment did for broader dips in the economy, such as the two before this one.

Total employment, wage-price spirals, jobless pay, built in cushions and escalators — all are part of the postwar jargon of management, labor, economists and consumers.

Economists see fine shades of meaning in all these terms. But most citizens just know that business is brisk or slow, jobs easy or hard to find. Just as they associate inflation with only one thing — higher prices for what they buy, no matter what may have caused it.

The old fashioned panic usually started with bank failures and loud bursting of stock market balloons. There's nothing like that today.

A depression — according to the dictionary of economics by Harold S. Sloan and Arnold J. Zurcher — is "a period of low business activity when prices are low, purchasing power sharply curtailed, and unemployment high." The current dip has a long way to slip before getting into that class, in spite of the distressing total of the jobless.

A recession is defined as "a mild tapering off of economic activity, not sufficient to mark a major phase of a business cycle." Many economists tag today's state of business with that handle, although they concede that only some businesses are affected and in large sections of the nation you can scarcely find a trace of an over-all slowdown.

And that state of affairs is what a few years back was called a rolling readjustment, meaning that only part of the economy was down at any one time while others went zooming along waiting their turn.

This time the slump — another catch phrase used because it takes up less type space than recession — is too wide spread through the durable goods industries and too deep to be dismissed as rolling.

So the saucer recession has come into vogue. Economists looking at past economic dips noted that after a fairly steep decline the economy, before starting up again, spent quite a bit of time on the floor of the valley (it's on a plateau when it's stopped dead after a climb). The likeness to a saucer came in handy.

Some now vary this by opining that this bottoming out might be on a spongy bottom, remembering that saucers often can be wet and messy. This means the optimists hope that for some time now we'll have only minor ups

BLASTS NIXON-ADAMS—Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson at a press conference in Washington alma sharp criticisms at Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Presidential aide Sherman Adams. He said that Adams had "ex-plained himself into a very serious situation." Acheson also strongly criticized Nixon's trip to South America.

Girls' State Gets Start

Ohio Lassies Learn
Tricks of Politics

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The battle for political supremacy of the mythical 49th state — Buckeye Girls' State—began in earnest today.

Out of Sunday's caucuses of the Nationalist and Federalist parties came the narrowed field of candidates who will compete for state office nominations in Tuesday's primary. They filed petitions today.

The whole idea, of course, is to teach 806 high school girls from 85 of Ohio's 88 counties how state government works. Guided by members of the American Legion Auxiliary and alumnae of other Girls' States, the girls are operating their own government from the city level on up.

Ann Cook, 17, of Willoughby, explained how it feels to be a candidate. A candidate for governor herself, she declared:

"It's a challenge. I might as well give it a try."

Her motto: "With me, the cookie won't crumble."

Two girls won't be able to vote. They are Inger Olsen, 17, of Wickliffe, a Norwegian by birth, who cannot become a citizen until she reaches 18, and Maureen Gilway, 16, formerly of England and now from Huntsburg in Geauga County.

As non-citizens, they won't be allowed to hold office, either, but both expect to be that much better prepared when they do become eligible for citizenship papers.

Both parties named leaders Sunday, and mayors were elected. Antra Priede of East Cleveland is leader of the Nationalists and Barbara Folkert of Columbus heads the Federalist party. Mayors elected include:

Judy Zevnik, Euclid; Phyllis Antonelli, Cleveland; Bernadine Maestropietro, Youngstown; Rita Lepkowski, Elyria; Nancy Muhlenkamp, St. Henry; Sue Donaldson, Lyndhurst; Martha Elliott, Madison; Mary Hulfman, Minster, and Lynn Dixon, Bellaire.

and downs until the other side of the saucer or valley is reached. By then we're likely to have an entirely new set of terms.

Legislators Expect No SUB Action in Special Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Legislative leaders expect the special session to approve extra state jobless payments without acting on Supplemental Unemployment Benefit (SUB).

Only a surprise revolt in majority Republican ranks apparently could upset that expectation in the session opening at 2 p. m. EST Wednesday.

House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan) and Sen. C. Stanley Mecham (R-Athens), Senate majority leader, stand firm against any enactment on SUB.

They indicated that Democrats and other proponents of SUB could talk their heads off in the expected three-day session without hope of getting anywhere.

GOP Gov. C. William O'Neill kept hands off the politically explosive issue. The executive omitted SUB from his call for action on four major matters — jobless benefits, more poor relief money, an interstate highway billboard ban and sewer and water line extensions.

But he said SUB could be considered under his request to extend the state's 26-week jobless benefit limit to 39 weeks, setting the stage for SUB fireworks. Democratic leaders said they will caucus in advance of the session to map strategy.

Republicans dominate both houses despite the death of a GOP senator and two representatives since the regular 1957 session ended last June. Democrats still are outnumbered 95-42 in the House and 21-12 in the Senate.

Anticipating a temporary 13-week extension of benefits, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation is preparing to pay out nearly a million dollars to first applicants.

An emergency bill drafted for the Administration would become effective upon enactment. The measure calls for extended payments to workers reaching the end of their 26-week period between June 30, 1957, and April 1, 1959, if still unemployed. Extended payments would start after the new law becomes effective. They would be paid from the state's 543 million dollar unemployment trust fund instead of from federal loans.

The program permits workers eligible for extended benefits to receive a maximum of $507 in addition to their 26-week payments. The state benefit maximum is $39 a week for a worker with a family.

Legislative leaders insist union company pacts to conform their SUB contracts with Ohio law would be an easier way.

O'Neill will disclose how much extra poor relief money is needed in his message at the session's opening. He plans to deliver the message in person. The governor declined to say whether he will open the session to further business at that time.

Various interests have urged removal of the $65 monthly old age pension ceiling, an increase in courthouse fees and other matters.

The state already has dipped into next year's welfare appropriation to continue dollar-for-dollar matching of county poor relief expenditures through April. More will be needed for the rest of the bookkeeping year ended June 30.

The last Legislature appropriated 24 million dollars for poor relief in the two-year period ending in mid-1959. This year's appropriation ran out last March. Finance Director John A. Skipton says the state is spending at the rate of 16 million dollars a year for poor relief.

Reports showed an estimated 160,500 Ohioans on poor relief last month compared with 80,006 during May a year ago. Conditions resulting from the recession caused the increase.

Special session action is expected to give a go ahead signal for some 23 million dollars worth of sewer and water line extensions outside cities. A law enacted by the last Legislature has stymied

Bond counsel withheld approval of bond issues to finance the projects because rentals from users were required to pay half the retirement costs under the new law. Changes to permit full assessments for bond retirement are expected as a solution.

Approval of a billboard ban along 1,400 miles of interstate highways in Ohio would make the state eligible for extra federal funds to build throughways. Mighty Yankees Wake Up, Whack Baffling Tigers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Just when the Detroit pitching staff was to be knighted for outstanding service to the American League race, the Yankees woke up.

New York had scored only one run in 37 innings against the Tiger pitching and lost seven straight to Detroit. Then the Yankees cut loose Sunday with a 16-hit blast in a 15-0 rout.

Don Larsen had a two-hitter for his third shutout and sixth victory. After Billy Martin singled in the second, Larsen retired 16 Tiger batters in succession before Gail Harris singled in the seventh.

The second-place Kansas City Athletics topped Boston again 2-1 with the help of a game-saving catch by Hector Lopez on a drive by Jackie Jensen. Jack Urban outpitched Tom Brewer in a tight battle.

Cleveland broke out of a four-game losing streak by taking a pair from Washington 4-3 and 1-0. Minnie Minoso hit a home run in each game, deciding the second in favor of Jim Grant over Hal Griggs.

Baltimore climbed out of the cellar when Billy O'Dell turned in a six-hit shutout of Chicago 2-0, his eighth victory.

Sal Maglie, 41, returned to the old familiar National League surroundings and pitched St. Louis to a 2-1 edge over Milwaukee. San Francisco beat Philadelphia 5-4 in 14 innings on Willie Kirkland's home run.

Los Angeles took a doubleheader.

Bloomington Moves Into Second Place

The Washington C. H. outfit in the Southwest Ohio League moved closer to first place Sunday with a resounding 11-2 victory over the Mt. Sterling club — while another Fayette County entry, Bloomington, used a 4-3 victory over Blanchester to move into the league's third spot.

The Washington C. H. club, behind the efforts of Clyde Woodrow and Roger Osborne, kept the last place Mt. Sterling club on the bottom of the scoring pattern from start to finish. Mt. Sterling scored its two runs in the bottom of the fourth, and the Washington C. H. squad, already ahead, kept adding runs from there.

Woodrow smashed a homer in the seventh with two men on. Osborne did his scoring with a double, a triple and a single.

Eddie Robinette kept things moving for the Washington C. H. squad also, hammering out four singles and scoring one run.

Neigher Alex Wackman, on the mound for Washington C. H., nor Mt. Sterling hurler Buck Buckley, gave up a single walk. Wackman struck out 10 men and held the losers to four hits.

The Bloomington Monarchs, off to a slow start at the beginning of the season, came from behind to defeat the Blanchester Eagles Sunday, and used the victory to push past inactive Greenfield into the third spot. Ike Upthegrove led scoring with two runs on two hits.

Brown and Corbett also got hits each as the Monarchs romped.

The Blanchester outfit went in front, 2-1, in the bottom of the second, and Bloomington had to settle for just one run in the third to tie the things up. They went ahead 3-2 in the sixth, and then the Eagles tied things up again.

Bloomington didn't score its final run until the ninth.

Patterson, pitching for Bloomington, gave up only three hits. Errors hurt both clubs.

Maglie held the Braves to five hits in seven innings in a duel with 22-year-old Joey Jay. Two walks by Jay and Ken Boyer's double produced the Cardinal runs in the third.

Willie Mays rejoined the Giants but it was Kirkland, just recalled Saturday from Phoenix, who hit the big blow. Kirkland's homer broke up a tight relief battle between Johnny Antonelli and Ray Semproch.

The Dodgers showed tight defensive play while the Pirates made two costly errors in the first game, in which Bob Friend was chased for the first time in his career for arguing umpire Vic Delmore's calling on balls and strikes.

Maglie held the Braves to five hits in seven innings in a duel with 22-year-old Joey Jay. Two walks by Jay and Ken Boyer's double produced the Cardinal runs in the third.

Willie Mays rejoined the Giants but it was Kirkland, just recalled Saturday from Phoenix, who hit the big blow. Kirkland's homer broke up a tight relief battle between Johnny Antonelli and Ray Semproch.

The Dodgers showed tight defensive play while the Pirates made two costly errors in the first game, in which Bob Friend was chased for the first time in his career for arguing umpire Vic Delmore's calling on balls and strikes.

OSU's Glenn Davis Claims Trio of World Track Titles

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Versatility marks the track career of Glenn Davis since high school days. So it comes as no surprise that today the 23-year-old Ohio State senior lays claim to three world titles.

As a senior at Barborton High School in Ohio, Davis captured the state title as a one-man track team with victories in the low hurdles, 220 and broad jump.

As a sophomore at Ohio State he put his name on the world record list for the first time by running the 400 meters in 49.5 seconds at the final U.S. Olympic tryouts in Los Angeles June 29, 1956.

He went on to win the Olympic gold medal and share the Olympic record at 50.1.

Next came the Big Ten meet of the year and the fleet 6-footer flashed to a 440-yard dash victory in 45.8 seconds, equaling the world record.

In the national collegiate championships at Berkeley, Davis bettered the record with 45.7, a time virtually certain to be recognized since all conditions for an international standard were met.

Then last Friday night at the National AAU meet, Davis took charge of the 440-yard hurdles to win in 49.9 seconds and better the 50.7 world record by G. C. Potgieter of South Africa and also the 50.5 by Josh Culbreath of the Philadelphia Pioneer Club, which awaits recognition.

Next for Davis comes the AAU trip to Russia where he may run the quarter both on the flat and over the hurdles.

After that Davis plans to finish his studies at Ohio State and begin selling automobiles for a living. But he'll stay in shape, aiming at another gold medal in the 1960 Olympics.

"That race last Friday was only the second 440-hurdle that I'd run competitively," he said. "And I don't exactly remember where the first one was. I think it was at Quantico."

With the postponed matches all played off, the stage was set for the next round in which the Giants blanked the Reds, 6 to 0, with one match postponed; the Phillies beat the Cardinals 6 to 2; the Pirates edged the Dodgers 5 to 3 and the Braves and Cubs broke even with 4 points apiece.

Dr. Robert Hagerty set the pace with a neat 39 over the rain-soaked course.

Columbus Youth Wins Trans-Miss

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, cocky young son of a Columbus, Ohio druggist, won the Trans-Mississippi Amateur Golf Tournament Sunday with a 9 and 8 victory over Richard Norville of Oklahoma City.

It wasn't much of a match. Nicklaus, 18, smacked the ball 300 to 325 yards down the fairways—usually 20 to 50 yards farther than Norville — and followed up with good putts to completely outplay his opponent.

The Ohioan shot the last 20 holes in even par, and he was only three over regulation for the 28 holes it took to win.

try Club with a 73—two over par for a 72-hole total of 233.

Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., won second money of $651 with a 297. Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., was third with 299 and won $558. Miss Hanson shot a 74 and Miss Suggs a 73 on the final round.

Legion Wins 'Double' Bill

Beats Rain, London In Sunday Outing

The Junior Legion baseballers could say they won a doubleheader Sunday. Defeating the rain for the first time this season, they also beat the London Juniors, 7-2, at the Madison County fairgrounds.

With Jim Cook's brilliant pitching, backed by a solid defense and good hitting, the Washington C. H. outfit was never behind. They put the game on ice with three runs in the fifth, and Cook allowed the opposition just four hits while striking out 10 and walking but three as he went the rout.

Strough had a corner on offense honors for the Washington C. H. club, scoring two runs on two hits. Snyder had one run and three hits, while Henry Rossmann had one of each.

Manager Don Campbell said he plans to have at least one game at city park this week before going into the first round of the seventh district tournament against Chillicothe at the Vet's Hospital Grounds at 2 p. m. Sunday.

MEANWHILE, other activity on the golfing front here is getting into high gear.

The annual women's invitational tournament is scheduled to tee off at the Country Club at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, half an hour after breakfast is served.

This is an 18-hole event, which will wind up on a social note with luncheon in the club house. Mrs. William Junk is the chairman.

Invitations have been extended to the women golfers of the clubs at Chillicothe, Circleville, London, Wilmington and Ohio State University.

The annual Ohio Left-handers Tournament will be held here Aug. 2 and 3. John Elleson of Washington C. H. is president of the organization.

Next Sunday, there will be a Scotch foursome, starting at 3:30 p. m.

Eight Washington C. H. golfers played in the Columbus district women best-ball tournament at Groveport. They were John Elleson, Bud Schue, Bart Mahoney, Dr. William Lawyer, John Petty, Ron Cornwell, Jack Daves and Carl Mason.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Carl Mason, Mrs. Ralph Bray, Mrs. William McLean, Mrs. William Junk, Mrs. Max Lawrence, Mrs. Roger Littleton, Mrs. Richard R. Willis Sr. and Mrs. Dwight Coffman played in the invitational tournament at Circleville.

With the feminine contingent of golfers growing steadily, the women's locker room is undergoing some minor remodeling.

Starting July 1, Tony Capuana, the club pro, will conduct free golf classes for sons and daughters of club members. The classes will be held for two age groups: 17 to 22 years old and 13 through 15 years old. They will run for five weeks.

Have you observed that glittering aluminum roof on the new Swine Barn addition at the Fairground?

My orchid this week goes to Wilson Lumber Yard (Billie Wilson) who generously donated eighteen squares of aluminum roof. Thanks Bill, everyone appreciates your cooperation. Now the Shepherd's Club members are making a lot of new hurdles for use in the Sheep Barn. With cooperation like this we are bound to have a grand Fair.

I had a new experience the other day. I was driving the tractor and baling hay. The ground was so soft, I got stuck right in the middle of the field. The cows won't have to chew the hay very much. It had been turned over so often it will practically wiggle down their throats. I may have to get some green glasses so they will eat it.

Leaving today to cut down the fish population in Canada, and I'm hoping the big one won't get away.

I've told the boys to sell all the new Chevys, and Buicks we've got while I'm gone, so hurry out and take advantage of the bargains we are offering.

Rabies Control Considered by Commissioners

Health Department Brings Threat to Their Attention

Precautions against a possible outbreak of rabies were considered by the Fayette County commissioners at their Monday morning session.

Dr. B. V. Scott, county health commissioner, accompanied by County Sanitarian John G. Todd and William Sollars, assistant sanitarian, met with the commissioners to acquaint them with the general situation.

They told the commissioners that protection against an increase in rabies, among both domestic and wild animals, is giving increasing concern to health authorities in all southern and southcentral Ohio counties.

Dr. Scott, said that while there was no immediate cause for deep concern or alarm here, he wanted to advise the commissioners that the state Health Department is anxious for all southern Ohio counties to take steps toward laying the groundwork for a rabies control program. He said Pike County's experience had such that the county already has found it necessary to spend approximately $5,000 on such a program.

AN EXTENSIVE procedure is necessary in all the actions to be taken in preparing and putting in force such a program. Dr. Scott stated.

He also urged that in the meantime, it would be well for owners of cats and dogs to have these pets vaccinated with anti-rabies serum by veterinarians.

The commissioners indicated a readiness to cooperate in any way possible when any such danger in this county becomes serious enough for the Health Department to call for quarantine of animals.

The county dog warden, Reginald (Chink) Davis, who also was present, said he would give special attention to unlicensed animals. It was said that animals suspected of having been subjected to rabies in any way, must be placed in a separate pound for observation and treatment.

DURING their Monday meeting, George Pensyl, of the Fayette County Memorial Hospital board advised the commissioners that the county prosecutor has made a ruling which permitted the hospital board, with the approval of the commissioners, to contract with an independent agency to collect overdue unpaid bills. The commissioners asked that a copy of the ruling and an official letter of request from the hospital board, be given them for their official records. When that is done, the request will be granted, they said.

County Auditor Harry Allen requested permission to attend the state convention of county auditors at Cedar Point June 26-28. His request was granted.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to routine matters.

600 Cars Checked Sunday by Jaycees

About 600 cars were checked by the Jaycees Sunday at their auto safety check on Market St., according to Luke Roberts, co-chairman.

Not more than five per cent of the cars needed attention he said and added that most of these were for light defects. Many after having the trouble fixed came through the line for a recheck, he said.

Jerry Dray is the co-chairman of the Jaycee committee.

The response was very good with cars going through the traffic check most of the time from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The city police and sheriff's department gave the Jaycees' cooperation, Roberts said. Thirty Jaycees took part in the traffic check.

Robert Tice—president-elect, said next Sunday the traffic check will start at 9 a. m. at the same location. It will last until the stickers ordered are used. If the response compares to this Sunday, he believes the check will last until about 3 p. m.
